Echoing a unique blend of aesthetic rigor and luxurious industrial allure, this wooden sideboard coated in black iron plate - aptly named Bold - is sure to complement the most refined contemporary decors. A dynamic design of oblique lines defines the arrangement in asymmetrical storage compartments (a wide drawer and three doors), and also determines the slanted shape of the sleigh metal legs for a striking visual impact.

DOI coffee table

Design: arch Micol Brezigar

Thanks to its thoughtful and beyond-original design, this coffee table can easily be considered a fine contemporary sculpture. The external stereometric purity is interrupted when its inner structure reveals a multifold nature: the wooden side is carved to perfectly fit the textured surface of the oppositely oriented one in natural stone. An exclusive coating in 4mm-thick Piasentine stone - processed by Millimetri4 company - covers the whole piece.

Skillful use of orthogonal geometry and top-rate cedarwood define the unique aesthetic value of this table, perfect to fit in Scandinavian-style decors. Vertical panels and single legs make the most of the table's supporting structure, upon which rests a wide rectangular top. The natural charm of light cedarwood is enhanced by a saw-cut finish and a final oiling step. A continuous black-lacquered iron band outlines the table's lower perimeter adding a captivating textural and chromatic contrast to the whole design.
